

Bluestar Silicones Opens New Facility in York, S.C.

Bluestar Silicones has opened its new manufacturing and R&D center in York, S.C.

As part of its global expansion plans, Bluestar Silicones has relocated its two U.S. manufacturing facilities in Ventura, Calif., and Rock Hill, S.C., to a 226,000-sq-ft building which is situated on 21.5 acres. This new location offers a sizable footprint to enable Bluestar Silicones to expand manufacturing workshops, enhance laboratory capabilities and provide significant room for growth in existing specialty market and enter new markets. The move to York reaffirms the company's commitment to the U.S. market and supports its global five-year strategic growth plan to become a leader in the silicones industry.
